SOMETHING OLD, SOMETHING NEW

John Paulding Historical Society members – you are the first to officially know we are in the process of changing our name!

We will be known as PAULDING COUNTY HISTORY MUSEUM. It's a trademark or "doing business as" name. We are retaining the legal name John Paulding Historical Society Inc., which we have used since the organization started in 1977.

Why the change?

The new name reinforces our identity as being located in Paulding County. Hopefully it will eliminate confusion over the association with Revolutionary War hero John Paulding, for whom our county was

'LET'S TRIM THE TREE!'

"Let's Trim the Tree!" is the theme for the annual Festival of Trees. The dates will be Friday, Nov. 8 through Saturday, Nov. 16.

The festival committee, led by co-chairmen Michelle Stanford and Elizabeth Miller, has been busy planning and preparing for the museum's largest event and fundraiser of the year. The money raised during the event accounts for almost half of the historical society's annual operating budget!

The trees came out of storage on Oct. 1, thanks to Paulding FFA students. We always appreciate their help. Museum volunteers started unboxing all the decorations Sept. 24.

Remember, admission is free! Donations are greatly appreciated, so please give generously.

The Festival will be open daily throughout the entire nine days. Meals, entertainment and special activities are planned for almost every day.

All meals are by free-will donation.

The schedule is still being finalized, so dates and times are subject to change. We will post schedule updates on our Facebook page.

Every Day of the Festival, you can explore nearly 30,000 square feet of holiday trees and decorations in three buildings, including inflatables, animated figures and model train layouts.

The Festival once again opens with a Christmas Tea on Thursday, Nov. 7, featuring a preview of our museum buildings filled with trees and holiday spirit. Tickets can be purchased at the museum or by leaving a message at 419-399-8218.

Friday, Nov. 8, will be the official Festival opening! Hours are 4-8 p.m. The Paulding County Senior Center is sponsoring the pasta bake dinner.

Saturday, Nov. 9, is Kids' Day. Hours are 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Events include a bake sale, Chris Bercaw making balloons for the kids and a visit from Santa from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Museum volunteers will serve a lunch featuring grilled hamburgers and hot dogs. For supper, the Bargain Bin will serve up a baked potato bar starting at 4:30 p.m.

Canal scoop used to build canals

The star of our August canal tour was an original canal scoop, found buried in the Miami & Erie Canal in our county. The scoop is crafted of thick oak reinforced with hand-forged iron. The scoop probably was pulled by a mule or oxen and removed dirt while building and maintaining the canal. The rare artifact drew a lot of attention and photographs. It is now prominently featured in our canal display case.

This rare canal scoop, used for moving dirt before the days of heavy equipment, is on display at the museum. It was found buried in the Miami & Erie Canal in the county.

Canal fans attend tour

The museum was honored to host the Canal Society of Indiana (CSI) for its fall tour on Saturday, Aug. 17. The theme was “Towpath & Warpath,” following the Wabash & Erie Canal from Antwerp to Junction.

Speakers were John Nemcik, Defiance Section supervisor of the Buckeye Trail Association, and Jerett Godeke, a director of both the canal society and the museum and author of The Reservoir War.

Godeke created a comprehensive 34-page tour booklet outlining the tour driving route and points of interest on both the Miami & Erie and Wabash & Erie canals in the county. Sights included a railroad bridge over the canal, Antwerp’s canal prism, Six Mile Reservoir, Paulding Furnace, Junction, Little Flat Rock Creek Culvert and Viall’s Lock.

Guests in attendance included Mike Morthorst and Dave Gschwind from the Canal Society of Ohio.

“The Canal Society 2024 Fall Tour of Paulding County was a great success with about 55 people in attendance,” according to Bob Schmidt, CSI president. “Thanks to Jerett Godeke and Melinda Krick for providing the facility and tour of the county’s canal sites.

The tour booklet Jerett created is now online at our website indcanal.org. Go to Wabash & Erie Canal or directly to Paulding County Ohio under tour guides. There you will find the tour routes, photos of the structures and signage that has just been placed along the canal.”

The museum, in conjunction with the Paulding County Engineer’s Office, created road signs to mark the county’s eight canal lock locations. The engineer’s office installed the signs in time for the tour.

The signs mark six lock sites on the Wabash & Erie Canal, starting west of Antwerp following along County Road 180 (Canal Road) to Junction, plus two locks on the Miami & Erie Canal south of Junction.

Museum members Jerett Godeke, Jane Nice and Melinda Krick also worked on the sign project, which was funded through the museum using wind turbine mitigation funds.

Sincere thanks go to the engineer’s office and Brian Santo for creating and installing the signs.

Those in attendance received a museum “swag bag” containing items donated by several organizations and businesses. We appreciate your dona-

'Around the Square' on Movie Night

Black Swamp Arbor, Gleaner Life Insurance sponsored our third annual "Movie Night at the Museum" on Aug. 6. The public was invited to watch a new video, "Downtown Paulding: Then & Now."

This year's presentation is a new video inspired by the recent designation of the Paulding Downtown Historic District by the National Park Service. Museum president Melinda Krick assembled the video, using more than 100 images of buildings and storefronts from the 1880s to today. The audience was encouraged to reminisce and share information about their favorite places "Around the Square" and beyond.

Thank you to everyone who attended and for your generous free-will donations. All proceeds benefit the museum. Thanks also to the Black Swamp Arbor Gleaners for sponsoring this special evening and providing the popcorn!

Museum volunteers serve guests at the annual Chicken BBQ in August.

CHICKEN BBQ

Our Chicken BBQ on Saturday, Aug. 3, went well again this year.

Chairman Angie Pollock said thanks go to members who helped serve, donated food items, gave monetary donations and purchased BBQ dinner tickets.

Thanks also to Andy's Knockout Chicken for cooking the delicious chicken and to Eileen Kochensparger for loaning us her giant rooster for the window display on the west side of the square.

Everyone's support was greatly appreciated. This event is an important fundraiser for museum operations. Next year's Chicken BBQ will be the first Saturday in August.

Andy's Knockout Chicken barbecued tasty chicken halves served at the annual fundraiser.

Remember to check our window display at Village Apothecary for upcoming museum events and to see selected artifacts from our collection!

Truck show draws 124 vehicles

The museum held its 23rd annual ATHS Vintage Truck Show on Sunday, Sept. 22. Hundreds of people admired the engaging display of antique trucks and special interest vehicles.

Filling the grounds were 124 vehicles from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. The oldest truck was a 1912 Chase Model D from Defiance. The one that traveled the farthest distance was a 1970 Diamond Rio from Niles, Mich.

We served 154 lunches in our dining room.

A special thanks goes to "Team Kauser" at Kauser Trucking for organizing another successful event! We also appreciate everyone who brought their vehicle for the day. There was something for everyone to see and enjoy.

We thank each of the sponsors, donors, volunteers and servers who helped make the truck show possible. All proceeds go to the museum.

THE BUTTON BOX

By Eileen Kochensparger

Button button, who has the button? I can remember my mother having a large collection of buttons. Buttons came in all shapes, sizes and colors. A piece of clothing was not destroyed until the buttons were cut off.

When a new garment was made and needed buttons, the button box would be brought out and the search would begin.

Oh, and if by chance the button box was accidentally spilled, buttons flew all over the place and it was a great way to pass the time reminiscing what each button might have been on. Mothers would even give their children a string and let them pass the time away by stringing buttons together.

If by chance a pattern called for a button covered in matching fabric, the seamstress could purchase a two-piece button kit. A piece of fabric would be cut in a circle, then a running stitch sewn around the edge. The seamstress would pull the thread tightly around the button cover while carefully adding the bottom piece, which had teeth around the edge, snap the pieces together and a button would magically appear!

At last year's wedding gown event, we had vintage wedding dresses that had numerous buttons that went from the neckline past the waistline, on the cuffs and around the collars. Originally, clothing buttons sometimes were difficult to button and unbutton, so a button hook was invented. We have a couple of those at the museum.

For some people, button collecting began as a hobby. The 1930s, during the Depression Era, collecting buttons became very popular. At one time, there was a theory that if a girl collected 992 buttons, she would find her true love.

In 1938, the National Button Society was formed. At one time it boasted of 16,000 members. The society even had a magazine for the novice button collector as well as the experienced. Competition was great and vendors were collecting buttons and trading in all of the states.

As the knowledge increased on the collection of buttons, hobbyists ventured to Europe searching for buttons from the 18th and 19th centuries. By 1950, button collecting was widespread.

If you happen to be in JoAnn's or Hobby Lobby, check out the button display. You can find Mickey and Minnie, little yellow ducks, polka dots, stripes, Winnie the Pooh and a variety of others.

Buttons are the third largest collectibles, third only to stamp and coin collecting.

So, the next time you choose to throw away a piece of clothing that has buttons, why not start a button box?

A Wish List

The museum welcomes donations of interesting Paulding County artifacts, memorabilia and ephemera. To donate (or to allow the museum to photocopy or photograph items for our files), please email us at jph-s45879@yahoo.com or stop by the museum on Tuesdays.

- Home movies (8mm or 16mm) and VHS tapes of local events, such as the county fair, community celebrations, parades, fires, pageants, recreational activities, races, aerial views and other interesting subjects. We can have these digitized and returned to you.

Awards and grants and markers, oh my!

So many exciting things have been happening at the museum since July, we hardly know where to start!

This spring, museum president Melinda Krick prepared an Ohio Historical Marker application for New Rochester, a pioneer settlement and port on the busy Maumee River that became Paulding County's first county seat. The state has awarded this marker to our county!

The marker, only the sixth in the county, will be installed at the Park District's New Rochester Park at the site of the former village. Hopefully, it will be dedicated during the Crane Township Bicentennial in August 2025.

The marker will be funded by the Crane Township Trustees, Paulding County Park District and the Paulding County Chapter of the Ohio Genealogical Society.

Also this summer, the museum received notice it was awarded Ohio Facilities Construction Commission grant funding to upgrade our electrical systems, which has not been improved since the first building opened in 1984.

We are extremely grateful to the Paulding County Commissioners and State Rep. Roy Klopfenstein for helping to secure this grant. Plans call for the work to be done while the museum is closed this winter.

The Paulding County Economic Development board visited the museum to hold a meeting in our facilities. We were glad to welcome them. We extend the same invitation to other organizations. Other groups such as the Paulding Kiwanis and Bargain Bin already have visited. Contact us for more information.

Also, our dining room/kitchen area is available to rent for parties, class reunions, baby showers and other events.

Paulding Area Chamber of Commerce presented the museum with a Golden Shovel Award at the chamber's annual banquet in September. The award recognized the museum for infrastructure investment through paving the parking areas around our three buildings. The paving project was made possible by several bequests, notably from the late Tom Rulman.

Speaking of the chamber, have you heard about its exciting Paulding County-opoly project? The chamber has created a customized version of the beloved Monopoly game, featuring local organizations and businesses. The museum is included among the lots around the board! The games should be available for purchase in time for Christmas. Watch for updates in the coming weeks.

New Name

named. He died in New York two years before our county was organized – he never set foot in Ohio, and he never owned land here!

Also, we hope the new name better conveys our purpose. We aren't simply a social group or club; we are an important community resource whose mission is "Preserving the Past For Future Generations."

And did you know that John Paulding Historical Society was not the group's first choice for a name?!

Although our organization is nearly 50 years old and our museum celebrated its 40th birthday this year, we continue to grow and improve, thanks to our amazing volunteers and public support. We are excited about becoming the Paulding County History Museum as we look to the future.

The name change is an important first before launching new initiatives, such as a logo, branded merchandise and a website.

THE LOGO

The new museum logo is being officially unveiled here. Some of you may have noticed it on volunteer T-shirts at the truck show in September! The logo, designed by museum president Melinda Krick, is a circular design of dark green and cream. The center contains four icons:

- A tree, representing the timber that had to be cleared from the Black Swamp, and the source of the county's first industries.
- An arrowhead for the Native Americans who hunted, fished and lived here.
- A canal boat for the two canals that helped open up the county for settlement and export of timber products and commodities.
- An old windmill, representing the county's enduring agricultural heritage that emerged after the Black Swamp was drained.

Behind the icons, the background is tree rings, again representing the trees as well as the passage of time.

An arrowhead from the museum's collection was used for the emblem in the logo. The tree is based on one growing at New Rochester Park, site of our first county seat.

MERCHANDISE

The museum currently has some dark green T-shirts with the logo printed in white. Orders are being taken for other sizes and styles (long-sleeve Tees, sweatshirts and hoodies).

We also have similarly styled tote bags for sale, new 2.5-inch square stickers and a Paulding postcard with our logo on the back. Ask for them in our Country Store! Proceeds will benefit the museum and our programs.

A VISIT TO CECIL IN 1886

Crane Township celebrates its bicentennial in 2025! We offer some more history of Crane Township and Cecil.

From the Paulding Democrat of April 8, 1886:

CECIL CHIMES

Twenty years ago the branches of the majestic elm waved in the unbroken forest where now stands the village of Cecil. The origin of its location is that the Paulding Furnace having been built on the canal, and the proprietors wishing a railroad communication nearer than Emerald, they prevailed upon the Wabash [Railroad] Company to give them a station as near a point as possible on that road, which was done in the year of 1867, and Martin N. Utley was appointed the agent.

Mr. Utley also embarked in the mercantile business and has been a moving spirit of the town since that date.

His first business room was a log cabin, which was superseded in a short time by a neat frame, which is now occupied by William Wallace as a hotel and saloon, Mr. Utley having subsequently erected a large two-story frame where he is now the proprietor of as fine a general store as the county affords.

W.H. Robertson and Russell Randolph are the other merchants and both have good rooms and fine stores.

The principal factory of the place is the stave factory of the Beugnot Bros. & Co., and was put in operation in 1878. The factory furnishes employment to about 35 hands and has an average cutting capacity of about 24,000 staves per day. The firm also has 560 acres of land in Sections 35 and 36 of Crane Township from which they get stave bolts for their factory. Upon this land they have located a sawmill and manufacture lumber extensively, and have a switch running from their mill to the Mackinaw* over which they start this lumber to market. One hundred and 50 acres of their land is improved and they are tiling and propose to farm the same and more as fast as it is cleared. The firm controls about 100 hands in their various branches of business in the county.

Cecil has two church edifices, one Catholic and one Presbyterian, both frame. The Presbyterian was erected in 1878 and the Catholic in 1880. The United Brethren denomination talk of erecting a church in the coming summer.

Cecil has a nice brick Town Hall erected in 1880. It is a two-story building about 24 feet wide by 40 feet in length.

The school house is a neat two-story brick erected in 1879 and is a very substantial and beautiful building. The spring term will close for a month's vacation on Friday, April 9th.

Cecil was incorporated in 1879, and has now about 400 inhabitants.

H.M. Simpson is the proprietor of a tile factory and sawmill and does a good business.

Coe Robison is the only tonsorial artist in the place. He has neat rooms and is ever ready to wait upon all customers.

John Kain has lately opened out the only meat market of the place. He will run a wagon to Sherwood and will do a good business. Success, John.

Allen Boyer has lately opened a new shoe shop. Charlie Leaders and Ed Williams, two first class workmen, are in his employ. We trust that Mr. Boyer will receive good patronage.

A large frame hotel was erected last fall by Orsemus Bartholomew Chesbrough, who has lately furnished it nicely and will soon open it to the traveling public.

John Mast is the only blacksmith in the place. He is a good workman and does a large business.

The genial John White settled near Cecil as a ship-timberman about 20 years ago. He is the present proprietor of a billiard hall and lunch room on south side of the Wabash track and invites all to come and see.

Delphos Guerin has a fine grocery store and sells piles of goods.

The Wabash depot is a neat, substantial frame and was built in 1879. T.A. Wesley, the genial passenger and freight agent, took charge of the depot about three years ago and is well liked by all. He informs us that the receipts of the freight office is $4,000 per month and the passenger receipts about $400.

Owing to the present prospect of the Mackinaw being built northward this season, a boom for Cecil is bound to come and in view of this it would be an excellent point for a flouring mill, in fact one of the best in the county; a good drug store and hardware store are also much needed as there are none in the town.

Take it all in all Cecil certainly has a bright prospect of becoming a prosperous and thriving village, situated as it is in the midst of a fine farming country and with, when the Mackinaw is completed, the best railroad facilities of any place in the county. Success to the place and to the good people there.

The Mackinaw line, a nickname for the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw Railroad. It later became the Cincinnati Northern and eventually the New York Central.*

Tonsorial artist is another term for barber.*

Museum volunteers John Pier, Mike Bevis, Dan Wilder and Gene Olwin (not pictured) had to partially disassemble an antique railroad baggage wagon before removing it from the Antwerp Depot and moving it to the history museum in Paulding. It is now part of the rail exhibit in Barn 2.

NEW ACQUISITIONS

Almost every day the museum is open is like Christmas morning! We typically welcome a number of exciting artifacts into our collection each month, but this summer truly has brought us some outstanding items.

Most notably, the Village of Antwerp offered the museum numerous items that had been displayed at the village-owned historic railroad depot. The majority, if not all, had come from the former Otto E. Ehrhart Museum that had been in the Antwerp Town Hall. We are thrilled to have them in our museum, preserved for the future. Many items are currently on display.

The Ehrhart collection includes toy car, wagon and dredge; fossils, metal lunch pail, gas street lamp, broad ax, early radio with distinctive speaker, numerous historical books, hat pins, more than 200 arrowheads and stone tools, cameras owned by Mr. Ehrhart, model train and accessories, a depot baggage wagon and two display cases. We are deeply grateful to the Village of Antwerp for entrusting us with such an important legacy.
